

Part III-B: English of Academic Purposes

Lecture by Ann Ogidi

Note by THF

2025 年 2 月 24 日

目录

Lecture 1

02.17

- Question.
- a.* What will I learn?
 - b.* What do you think the work in CQU?
 - c.* How many languages can you speak?

Notation. Listening and speaking are the most used communication skill.
Specified in percentage:

- Listening: 40%
- Speaking: 35%
- Reading: 16%
- Writing: 9%

Example. National elections were held yesterday in Albania

Notation. Effective body languages:

- Keep a natural eye contact
- Nod
- Lean forward
- ...

Notation. Assessment of score:

- class performance: 40%
- homework: 20%
- exam: 40%

Arianna Huffington's article:

Solve. 1st:

- A
- hard
- fainted
- productive

2nd:

- revolution
- women

- sleep
- four
- interesting
- five

Homework: Write a personal summary, in docx, filename: EAP 622 Mike xxxxxxxx.docx

Next class preview: Read "The power of sleep transcript", watch the video.

Contact with Ann Ogidi: ...

Lecture 2

02.24

Notation. This lecture's goal: impromptu speaking or suddenly speaks

Definition. Impromptu speaking: when you deliver a speech without any prior preparation. This word means without preparation or organization

Sometimes you will be called to make a speech suddenly. The bad situation like:

- Unprepared, out of control
- Unknown of the topic
- nervousness
- Challenging fr introverts

Good situation are:

- Skill to communicate
- Confidence
- People's admire
- Share

Example. Tell me something about your name.

the skill of this language skills:

- Vivid language: Paints a picture
- Emotive language
- Inclusive language: Include the audience, friendly and welcoming.

Every good speech has a structure. one of the examples like:

- point → story → point
- intro → point 1 → point 2 → ... conclusion
- feeling → anecdote → tieback

Pauses are meaningful. Give your audience to relax, think and breathe.

When you slow down:

- language much clearer
- stronger
- audience pay more attention

Example. My favourite season

Notation. In nature nothing exists alone. –Rachel Carson